

Chief Sailing Officer

Royal Thames Yacht Club

London-based

The Chief Sailing Officer has operational responsibility for yachting events organised by the Club working closely with Committees and the Rear Commodore Sailing to develop and deliver the Club's yachting events, including procedures for races and regattas, also for controlling the operation & maintenance of the Club's boats and their moorings.

Publicising events through the website & newsletters, creating & managing event budgets and liaison with harbour authorities & sponsors are additional key elements to the job. This role is supported by the Sailing Office Administrator and volunteer event managers and officials.

Candidates will need to have a wealth of experience with yachting as a competitor and Race Officer. Organisational and interpersonal qualities are vital, as is the ability to work with and under the direction of Committees.

The Royal Thames Yacht Club is the oldest continuously operating yacht club with events and competitions in home waters and abroad. This role is located at the Central London Clubhouse, with frequent requirements to travel in support of Club events.

Closing date for applications is Friday 16th December
